Spartan Time

First chapter: Prologue

Linna, the smart AI of the human Idaho class Super Carrier/Cruiser highbred, Redemption, was contemplating on how to better use the ship that had been hers alone for the past 3.6 years. She had already made plans to better increase the slip space reactor power generation and the MAC gun so it can keep the power from and reuse it to be able to fire 2 shots without having to recharge. Also she has manage to increase the speed of the round from 1% the speed of light to 4% of the speed of light, which would have the power to break through the shielding on a CCS class Battle Cruiser in one or two shots. She had been able to also increase her life span of a mere 7 years to that of 15 years, her efforts doing that already took 1 of those years away. And right now she was trying to better improve the shielding of the Spartan-II super soldiers MJOLNIR armour, in which they have 3 on board: Kelly-087, Frederic-104 and William-043. She had also increased the photo reflectivity of the Spartan-III SPA gear so now they are at the standards of the Sangheili active camouflage.

She had been listening in on the UNCS slip space transmission and had found out that the Sangheili, or elites as the humans call them, had broken away from the Covenant and joined the UNSC. They have gone through the portal in Africa to the Ark to stop the Covenant from firing the halo array and came back as the victor, but at the loss of Master Chief Spartan-117, John. She had a look at the clock and it was only 4.39 minutes left till they would drop out of slip space, and the time to start waking the crew up from cyro-sleep.

A/N

Halo belongs to Bungie, and all S-2s are aswell, the rest is mine.

This is just a prologue, a teaser sort of chapter, while its also too see if anyone likes it. Right now there's another chapter ready with one more on its way soon. Depending on reviews and all that will be if it comes. Hope you guys and girls had fun reading it. And the Ship class for the redemption is up for change if anyone thinks up a better name, PM me it and ill use it

Sangheili = Elites
